1. At dawn on 20 September 1951 the city of Vrsac, Yugoslavia, was completely sealed off by the Militia and Yugoslav regular troops. No one was allowed to enter Vrsac without first showing identity cards, and those who lacked documentation were taken to Militia headquarters for interrogation or interned. The reason behind this sudden action is unknown.
2. Movement along the Yugoslav frontiers is restricted and identity cards are demanded at frequent intervals by military sentinels.
3. Border incidents no longer will be tolerated according to Communist Party circles in Vrsac. Each incident will be answered in kind, it is claimed.
